Overview

BeBroker is a property platform that facilitates its users to close more property deals, connect with their business network for purpose-driven requirements and be more productive with their service offerings on mobile applications.

For all kinds of property-related services, BeBroker caters a wide range of services to sellers and buyers, its also rangebound contractors and promoters to connect with their business-related partners and service providers.

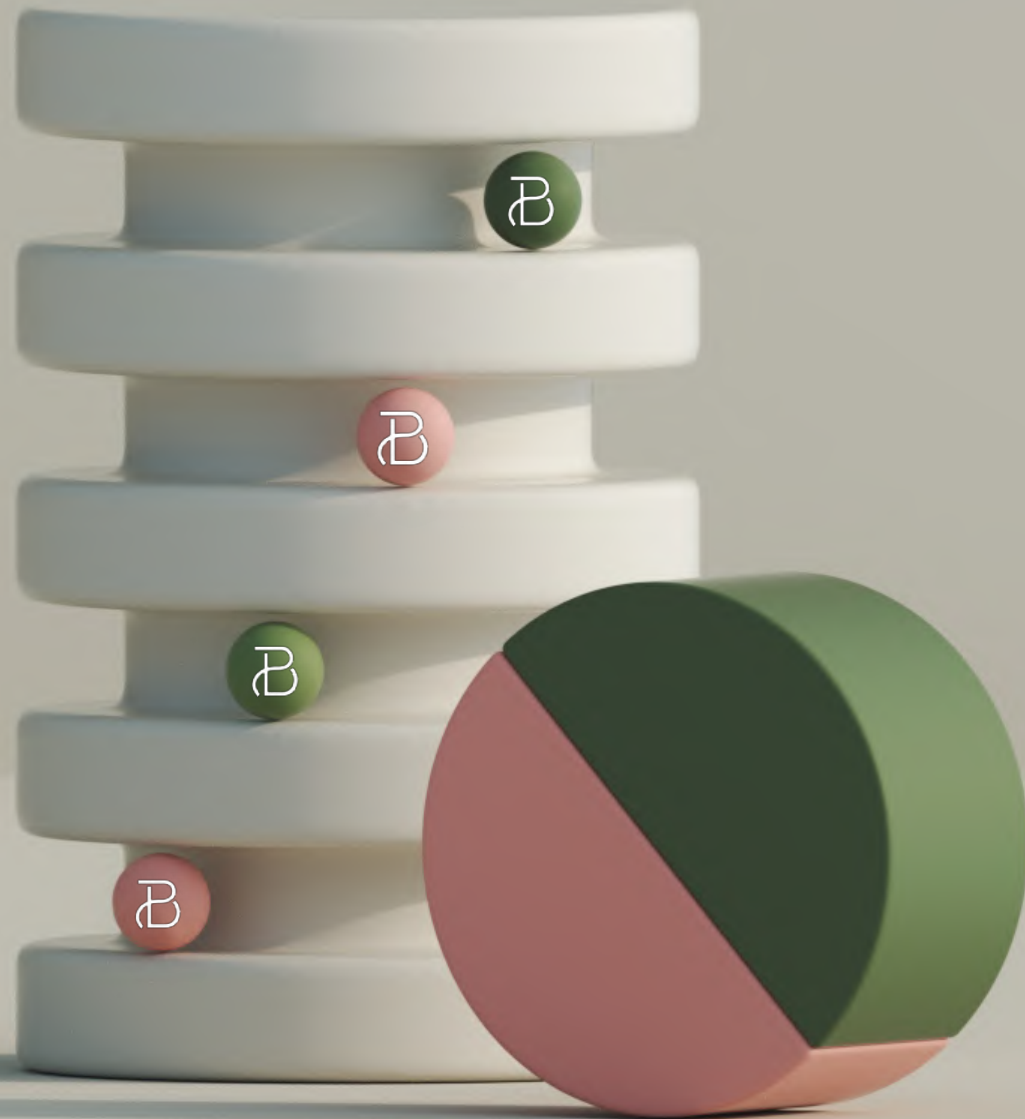

Our story

We started this company with the vision to facilitate real estate & construction professionals with all the necessary tools and services they require to grow and multifold their businesses.

Our founding members team are coming from a financial products broking background. They have worked for market leading international brokerage firms from Mumbai, South Africa, London and most recently Dubai, with experience trading commodities, bonds, foreign exchange markets and International Real Estate.

We firmly believe the power of network and management, that can change the way of working and its effectiveness which helps real estate professionals to do more with less.

The Problem

The problem our industry is facing

Problem

We are unable to develop any smooth one stop service company for the property industry (Real Estate & Construction) and how to mediate and service them through proper channel.

In any industry, every professional level is changing and evolving through technology, so why not property professionals?

Impact

We are transforming and improvising the property professionals to serve consumers with technological grounds.

Construction is among the most archaic and cumbersome businesses in India with almost 80 percent of the sector being unorganised and managed by orthodox developers.

Challenges

- Majority of Professionals are un-trained & un-qualified to work.
- They don't have one stop service solution to their businesses to grow effectively.
- Builder/Promoter these days require a 360 degree SWOT analysis from the market insights.

Who is affected by this problem?

Property Brokers

They chase every location-based broker for their listings and requirements, which end up linking couple more brokers in the chain.

Construction Professional

There is nothing like an aggregator application for this gentry, which can help them or assist them to grow more and service them neatly.

Property Developer

Builders often find it difficult to partner up with location based brokers which affect their selling strategies results in unfaithful and unorganised buying experience to end users.

Why now?

Indian prop-tech is accelerating , so technology has to bridge the traditional gaps

- We are ready to adapt the change
- The technology is available
- Professionals require few dedicated services in this sector as to grow themselves
